FRIDAY MARCH 22, 2024

I grew up in Paris, so it's always held a special place in my heart! Over the years Harvey and I visited this always amazing, walkable and lively city countless times. Each visit always brings something new and exciting to see. The French are as delicious as their food, wine and architecture. This trip was a bit different for me. I had the opportunity to take my second workshop with Peter Turnely (the first being Cuba). He's a terrifically talented, Pulitzer Prize winning Newsweek photojournalist. I have become quite good friends with two women in my Charlotte camera club who decided to join me on this adventure. My presentation will follow us thru a week of intense street photography, the good, the bad and the ugly. Hope you'll enjoy it!
